A prayer for today

by Thomas Jefferson

Almighty God, you have given us this good land for our heritage.

We humbly ask you that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of your favor and glad to do your will. Bless our land with honorable endeavor, sound learning and pure manners. Save us from violence, discord and confusion, from pride and arrogance, and from every evil way.

Defend our liberties and fashion into one united people the multitude brought here out of many nations and tongues.

Endow with the Spirit of wisdom those to whom in your name we entrust the authority of government, that there may be justice and peace at home, and that through obedience to your law we may show forth you praise among the nations

In time of prosperity fill our hearts with thankfulness, and in the day of trouble do not allow our trust in you to

We ask all of this through Jesus Christ

Valley assessed valuation increase is low for county

OAKLAND - The increases in the total assessed value for Pleasanton and Livermore for the 1975-76 fiscal year are among the lowest in Alameda County, according to figures released by County AssessorDon Hutchinson.

The assessment increases in the county range from a low of 5.94 percent(Oakland) to a whopping 27.86 percent (Union City).

Pleasanton is assessed at $456.9 million, an increase of 6.53 percent, while Livermore's $556.8 million assessment represents an increase of 9.68 percent.

The increase in assessed valuation in the county's un-incorporated areas — includ7.64 percent.

Final assessment figures will not be available until the new figures for the utility company properties are re-leased Aug. 1.

When those utility rolls are made available and are combined with the figures released this week, last year.

SRV valuation to leap in 1976

Assessed valuation in Contra Costa County will jump over 13 per cent next year, according to County Assessor Fred Wanaka, and residents of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District are absorbing the biggest leap, his report states.

Assessed valuation in the SRVUSD (the unincorporated areas are figured by school district) is going up 26.23 per cent, well ab gay Area inflation rate of 12.5 per cent.

San Ramon's property dol-lar value zoomed $40,820,134 in a single year, according to Wanaka, so southern Contra Costa County residents will have to pay not only more per $100 of assessed valuation next year, but each house will be worth some 26 per cent

Two other areas recorded jumps of over 20 per cent in assessed valuation. Pitts-burg's property is now worth 24.19 per cent more than it was last year at this time and the tiny town of Hercules is much stronger as well. Her-cules' assessed valuation went up an average of 20.46

Of course, rising assessed valuation keeps the tax rate down. The more money county property is worth, the lower the tax rate has to be to meet the budget. Citizens in Lafayette, Orinda and Moraga all absorbed a less than 5 per cent increase in assessed valuation and so the increase in their taxes will be much

Pleasanton-VCSD spur sewer pact

OAKLAND - The many parties involved in the Pleasanton-Valley Community Services District sewer dispute met on neutral ground Thursday morning in the courtroom of Judge Robert Judge Bostick, acting as a mediator, called the factions together to see if an out-of-court settlement of the numerous sewer-related lawsuits is possible.

Following the two-hour in-formal session, which was closed to public and press, the parties emerged and said they had agreed to begin a series of meetings designed to allow VCSD to expand its sewer facility to 5 million gallons a day capacity - and eventually to 8 mgd.

Eight Pleasanton developers, whose developments would be serviced by VCSD, are suing the district because no expansion has taken place. In addition, the City of Pleasanton is contemplating filing a similar lawsuit. VCSD has maintained it is doing all it can to proceed with the plant expansion but is being stymied by environmental constraints imposed by regional, state and federal VCSD could expand its capacity to 5 mgd if an agreement can be worked out with the Regional Water Quality Control Board and the U.S. Army to allow land disposal of thp treated effluent.

The expansion to 8 mgd is still in limbo because of stringent environmental requirements dealing primarily with air quality. To proceed with that expansion, mitigationmeasures to counteract further degradation of the air brought on by increased development must be worked

Those attending Thursday's closed session were representatives of the city, VCSD and the developers, EPA Re-gional Administrator Paul DeFalco, State Water Re-sources Control Board Executive Officer William Dendy, two Alameda County representatives and three officers from the U.S. Army.

Following the session, both Pleasnton City Attorney Ken Scheidig and VCSD attorney Peggy McElligott said the Army, county and water resources board representatives had indicated a willingness to work out a compromise.

BART severs 4.9% of staff

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND—Bay Area Rapid Transit has given lay-off notices to 87 persons, or 4.9 per cent of the employes.

The employes were hired and trained as train operators, station agents and maintenance workers in anticipation of the system operating nights and week-ends beginning this summer. But the board of directors last Thursday ordered budget cuts totaling $6 million and the "furlough" notices were handed out Wednesday. The layoffs will become effective July 16.

At the same time the budget cuts were ordered, the board also voted 5 to 4 not to initiate night service in the face of another financial crisis. Officials of unions which represent BART's employes have been meeting with the rapid transit management and their members in an effort to forestall

BART, for the second year in a row, hasn't enough revenue to pay its bills. The board of directors ordered the cutbacks rather than approach the state Legislature for help.

BART was bailed out of the last crisis by legislative approval of a continua-tion of the half-cent transit sales tax in Contra Costa, Alameda and San Francisco counties.

Legislators have told BART officials that little assistance can be expected from the state. Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post has hit BART spending in a report released late last month.

Everett Riehl, acting president of ATU Local 1555, said the Herringer retirement benefit plan would be "very unappealing" to his union's members. Negotiations with district staff will resume Monday and in the meanwhile the union will work on other alternatives to prevent layoffs, Riehl said.

"We will not accept increased work-loads for the work force left behind," Riehl said.

"If that were to happen, certainly to get those people back on the job, the members working would seriously consider the overtime situation," he add-

COVA almost loses Zone 7

PLEASANTON - In a surprise move precipitated by squabbling among Congress of Valley Agencies (COVA) Steering Committee members, Zone 7 nearly voted it-self out of the fledging Valley-wide group Wednesday night.

In a four-to-three decision directors of the zone voted to maintain their status as a permanent member of COV-A's steeering committee.

Director Robert Becker, who told the board he followed COVA through its parent Valley Planning Agency days to its present inception. first moved to pull the zone completely from membership in the agency, but later went along with fellow director Harlan Zodtner's amendment to reduce its status from permanent, voting member of lihy to present the city's Sto-the steering committee to neridge Regional Shopping "participating" member of Center plans to the Congresthe congress. The move would have weakened COVA's already tenuous stand in the Valley by reducing its finances, shifting the committee to an even-numbered six members and possibly restricting its jurisdiction.

Becker made the motion bynoting his "reaction has been less than favorable about the way COVA's going," and pointing to the squabbles between the City of Pleasanton and other steering committee members. COVA Chairwoman Helen Tirsell, also a Livermore City Councilwoman, had asked

Pleasanton representatives Roger McLain and Bob Her-

The meeting that night, which at times became acrimonious, ended amenably when McLain agreed to go back to council and tell them of the informative nature of the airport expansion plans presentation.

Steering committee members from Valley Community Services District (Richard Fahey and Ann Jolley), Zone 7 (Robert Pearson) and Liv-ermore, (Tirsell and Futch) at the time argued with Mc-Lain that COVA was a powerless "debating society," in Pearson's words, and existed for the dissemination of information to elected officials of all Valley agencies.

Pleasanton still balked, claiming the move would set an unwarranted precedent.

McLain and other council members argued further that they thought COVA's function was to act as a unified voice for the Valley when facing agencies outside the Valley. Zone 7's Zodtner and Beck-

They earned their American citizenship

ByLILLY AULT

A little extra pride and joy will be in the hearts of the Berrettys of Pleasantonwhen they display their newly-acquired American flag today.

Henry and Betsy formerly of Indonesia, secured their American citizen-ship on April 15 of this year after arriving in the United States in 1960 as one of the Indonesian families who were forced to flee their country because of hostilities.

"It was a difficult decision to make," stated Betsy in referring to giving up their native citizenship, "however, now that we did it, we are very happy and feel we should have gone about it much sooner." Betsy and Henry attended night school to study U.S. histo-

"We learned an awful lot about the country," she said, "probably more than most people who attended school here as we were most eager to learn and asked a lot of questions."

The Berrettys first try at obtaining their citizenship was not successful. "We were so nervous we just couldn't think," recalled Betsy. The test is oral, not written. Each person applying for his citizenship is called in for a private interview with a qualified person.
"As soon as I walked into that room," said Betsy, "my mind went blank. The first question I heard was 'Explain the Constitution.' I immediately and excitedly said 'Explain the Constitution.' . I told the lady to ask me any question about the Constitution and I would be able to answer it, but to explain the Constitution, why I didn't know where to begin and what exactly she wanted.

Thus ended the first interview and endeavor to obtain her citizenship. Her husband also did not pass.

It was quite awhile before Betsy and Henry went back for their second test, but when they did, they were much cal-mer and had an idea what to expect. Betsy went in first to have her interview. When she came out Henry went in for his interveiw, but she did not

"I sat nervously waiting for him to complete his interview," Betsy re-called. "As soon as he walked through the door with this big smile on his face, I knew he too had passed. We were both very excited and happy."

One of the questions asked of the future citizens of America which Betsy found difficult to answer "Would you be willing to take up arms if and when it became necessary and shoot to kill?" Her reply was "I don't want to shoot anybody at anytime and I'm not sure I could. If it meant the life of myself or my family, I don't know how I would react," stated Betsy. Betsy did answer the question in the affirmative, for if she hadn't, her certificate of citizen-ship would have been denied.

To make their citizenship official, the Berrettys had to appear before the judge to swear to the renouncing of their previous citizenship and take on the full responsibility of being an American citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berretty of Pleasanton are presented with an American flag as token of their new citizenship by Foothill Booster Donald Paukert. Below, the hard-won certificates of American citizenship.

One of the greatest reasons for being happy to become a citizen of the United States to the Berrettys was "We can now vote." This was one of the privileges of citizenship which the Berettys missed.

"As far as I'm concerned," says Bet-"people have no right to criticize until they take an active part in their

The fact that the Berrettys were moving just about every two years with their subsequent experience in dealing with real estate companies, led Betsy into the real estate business. "I found real esate companies do not always have the best help and that they always seem to show you everything except what you were looking for in a home," Betsy said. With this in mind, Betsy felt she could be of service to people. "I enjoy people and now that I have been in the real estate business, I like the work." The Berrettys have three childre, Liz who is 16 and was born in the Netherlands, Harriett, 15, and Tricia, 7. Because Liz was not born here although she came to this country when she was just a baby she is not considered an American citizen.

Betsy and Henry will have to petition citizens before Liz is 18 years old to obtain Liz's citizenship. If this is not accomplished, Liz will have to go through the same testing as her par-

Sox take majors, Dragons, Mets win

Wright Air won the Dublin Valley major league crown Wednesday night with a 4-1 playoff victory over Crown Chevrolet.

Cam Whitty pitched a three-hitter for the winners, striking out six and walking one. Losing pitcher Dan Reyes gave up six hits.

Tim Larin, Steve Marsh. Sean Ryan and Dan Scott all drove in runs for the winning Red Sox. Larin and Scott had doubles.

Reyes, John Doyle and Rich Dillard had the Crown base hits.

The15year old from San Rafeal has a bad taste in his mouth regarding sudden-death overtimes, and as a consequence fired an outstanding 72 to finish 36 holes of play at even par 144 to easily win the San Ramon Junior Golf Championships. Corbett, who was defeated in a play-off by Tom Costello in the North Coast finals two years ago, and Monte Vista's Bob Marten in this year's North Coast finals played his steady brand of golf to pull away from Bob Blair, whom the lanky Corbett was tied with after one round at even par 72.

He fired a secoond consecutive 72 yesterday for an even par 144 total, food enough for Al-to's Vince Baxter. Corbett becomes the first winner in six years of the San Ramon junior's history in which the medalist has been a 15 year

Blair, who hails from Santa Rosa struggled in with a six over par 76 and tumbled into third place at 148, one stroke ahead of Jeff Baker.

Playing conditions were good, according to Ron Allio who founded and has run the popular junior event for six years. This year the turnout was most impressive with 180 golfers competing and another 60 turned away. But,for Alfredo Estimo a 13

San Leandro's Ronnie Marks gladly took Estimo's place atop the leader board and walked away with the first place trophy after post-ing a 36 hole score of 163, which included an amazing 79 today.

Joey Penaflor captured the 10-11 group with an 18 hole score of 94 David Leiber was four back at 98.

Debbie Hall reigned su-preme in the girls division as she won the overall title by a whopping 17 strokes. Ms. Hall's 168 total was easily the better to hometown favorite Karen Whiten who finished 36 holes at 185.

And while many golfers were having their troubles yesterday, Fremont's Mike Mills, younger brother of ex-junior golf great Ted Mills, tore the windy course apart with an incredible three under par 69.

Mills ambushed the front nine with a 33, then played consistent golf on the back side with a 36.

Terri Preciado went home with the first place trophy in the girls 13 and under division with a fine 18 hole score of 95. Terri's total was 12 strokes better than Nancy Brown who finished at 107 while Elana Penaflor was another shot

Independence Day

"Don't sell our beloved country short ... the principles upon which it was founded are good. Emphasize them!"

That is not the July 4 oratory from some politician. It is rather the exhortation of a bishop, suggesting a theme that his priests might consider in their own message to their flock, throughout this weekend.

Bishop Floyd L. Begin was speaking for the diocese and the priests which are his particular domain. His admonition is one that might apply to a much wider audience.

"Some official decisions offend God and man. Pray and act upon them," the Oakland prelate says. "Some immoral practices tend to reduce our beloved country to paganism. Make use of Independence Day to instruct and encourage your people to love and serve the United States by prayer and action.

"Patriotism is a virtue, a part of the virtue of justice."

There are some areas of public concern where "the separation of church and state" might happily never be accomplished. Love of country, adherence to a strong national purpose and a sensitivity to other's needs are among the goals which might be preached in church, or in congress.

We are still "One Nation, under God." That is worth remembering, on the day of our independence.

Supes summer show

Some of the more entertaining psychic gymnastics of the summer will soon be undertaken by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors.

The elaborate pirouettes and arabesques have already begun as the supes jockey for position in the redistricting that will radically affect their political futures.

Due to shifts in population, the districts that elected the present supervisors must be changed. Naturally, each supervisor has his own conception of his strengths and weaknesses and thus has strong feelings about exactly which areas should be in his district.

Joseph Bort, for instance, is very strong in Castro Valley. Any proposal that would strip him of that area will not meet with hpproval.

The valley's own John Murphy has always been strong over the hills in Fremont and Hayward and would certainly like to see those voters in his district one more time.

Fred Cooper likes Alameda and Tom Bates is strong with minorities and with the liberal Berkeley element.

So with five strong personalities in search of five secure districts — and with security overlapping in many cases — the infighting should be a pleasure to watch.

Bates unveiled his six preliminary proposals (one of which he admits is a fantasy) last week, and a public hearing is scheduled for July 15 on the changes.

However, on an issue as important as this to the supervisors, public opinion will be the last thing considered.

Tradeoffs, compromises and strange bedfellows will brighten the long summer afternoons as each supervisor seeks the best of all pble districts.

seeks the best of all pble districts.

It'll be more fun than reruns, that's for sure

Murray School Board

The petty bickering and squabbling at the Murray Elementary School District meeting Monday night has unfortunately become a familiar part of the background of the district.

Despite gaining approval for a tax increase earlier this year, it appears that the MESD board and staff are now ranged against the teachers in the district and the more vocal parents.

Monday night's meeting was an informational session on the budget but the session quickly bogged down into small-minded wrangles concerning items that have no real effect on the budget.

All sides are to blame for this sad state of affairs, which may well spill over into the fall and affect the education of the children in the district and affect the education of the children in the district.

It is somehow fitting that the children—the students, the ones that the district is designed for—are only used as tools in these signed for — are only used as tools in these disputes (though dispute is probably too grand a word).

The teachers want more money for supplies, they claim. I must disagree. The issue has gone beyond that. They want to prove that they have been right all along and that the district is hiding things from them.

If the district hasn't been hiding anything, then all their rhetoric has been wasted energy and all the time and effort they have put in will be wasted.

So rather than admit defeat they continue to bicker and fight like the children they are supposedly concerned about. (And I'm sure they are concerned about the children — it's just that their battle with the district has obscured that momentarily.)

But the district staff and board have little to crow about. The issue of supplies — which has been a major one, though God knows why, throughout negotiations with the teachers and meetings with parents — could have been solved with a transfusion of less than $20,000 at any time.

Twenty thousand dollars is a lot of money, but with some juggling and retrenchment, it could be found. Twenty thousand dollars for

The supply budget should have been increased to match inflation at the beginning. It now amounts to less than 1 per cent of phe budget and could have been increased three-fold and still have been less than 2.5 per cent of the budget.

Why has this issue become so important? What are these people actually complaining about?

These are the questions that the district, board and teachers should address themselves to, rather than spending their time trying to make the other side look foolish.

trying to make the other side look foolish.

As far as I can tell, there are no scoundrels in this sad affair. No one is out trying to cheat the public, the teachers or the students.

Somehow, these well-meaning people have determined that since the other guy doesn't agree with them, he must be bad. A small coterie of powerful teachers, a few administrators and the board must all share the blame for the sad state of affairs.

The first step is for all concerned to examine what they are actually saying and the way they are saying it.

The teachers have been petty in order to

More and more, I have come to think that silence may have been the biggest share of the problem. It is the Murray Elementary School District Board of Trustees that must supply the leadership in times like this.

FOCUS/3-day holiday

Big day, big dangers

This day is historically the "big day" at fairs, parks and recreational areas.

It is also the start of another three-day weekend, this one not contrived by government fiat ala those in February and at several other times in the year.

at several other times in the year.

And like other long weekends, the Fourth of July will mean the start of another carnage on the highways and byways of this state.

It is possible that sometime in the next three days, you or I or a loved one will encounter tragedy on the highways, near home or in a recreational area. We can lessen those odds through alert attention to ourselves and our surroundings.

The odds are heightened by the length of the trip, the number going and form of transportation, the items we take and the things we do going to, at and coming back from our respective weekends. This is all leading to a thinly-veiled nitch to "natroniza" the respectively

This is all leading to a thinly-veiled pitch to "patronize" the recreational and amusement outlets right here in this valley.

Whether your interests are water-oriented, sports, pure amusement or just plain snoozing in the noon-day sun, it's all here in the valley. We have Del Valle and Shadow Cliffs, a wealth of community parks, picnic areas nearby and hiking & biking oppor-areas nearby and hiking & biking opportunities galore.

The amusement center for the county is going full blast at the Fairgrounds. If you haven't been to the Fair you are indeed missing something. Beside the is going full blast at the Fairgrounds. If you haven't been to the Fair you are indeed missing something. Beside the massive Foley and Burk Carnival and the horse racing (post time today at 1:30 p.m.), there's an uncounted number of livestock, art, science and horticulture exhibits.

But the exhibit that has caught the fancy of thousands so far is that of the antique agricultural equipment and the surreys. They are "must see," as are the exhibits in the cavernous new Young California Building.

This thing they call the Alameda County Fair is quite some undertaking, alltold.

Figures we recently received, courtesy of the Western Fairs Association, support that statement.

The two-week county fair in Pleasanton drew 384,020 last year, had 8,510 exhibit entries and gave out $70,532 in premiums. These figures top all other fairs, shows and expositions in the central and south coast area save Santa Clara (in attendance) and Monterey (in premiums).

We might add, though, that the Alameda County Fair plant cost is far and away the highest of all in the central and south coast area. This includes fairs in Santa Clara County, Monterey, Santa Barbara, San Francisco, Contra Costa, San Mateo and Salinas Valley.

The plant cost or operations figure for

The plant cost or operations figure for Alameda was $9.1 million last year. Next highest was Santa Clara at $5.6 million and San Mateo at $3 million.

Be that as it may, the Fair is still a bargain. At $1.50 per adult (and 50 cents per child), a full day of fun can be had.

It'll cost another admission to see the ponies but the Amphitheatre show is free.

To paraphrase a statement of old, all things considered, I'd rather stay right here in the valley today and take advantage of what we take for granted year-round.

Day Care Centers

Editor, The Times:

In the recent article in the paper "Ark gets day care funds," it should be known that we at Pleasanton have taken the first real step BACKWARDS in destruction of our young children, especially using our low income families children.

Noted authority Dr. Dale Meers, child psychoanalyst affilated with Children's Hospital in Washington D.C. ... has some worthy experience to be considered in the area of day care services.

On a research project in 1964, probing the "Prevention of Culturally Determined Retardation," a project funded by the National Institute of Mental Health and the American Public Health Association, Dr. Meers studied day care in Eastern Europe in 196, and two years later the U.S. Public Health Service sponsored Dr. Meers' trip to study day care in the Soviet Union.

Dr. Meers says "Eight years ago, I would have been unreservedly supportive of day care for the very young, But from studies abroad and from a more direct experience from Washington, I became increasingly concerned that the use of early day care was fraught with psychiatric dangers that are as severe as those of the latch key child of the streets."

Dr. Meers also said "I know of few researchers, who dispute the probability that mild to severe developmental failure derive from institutionalization." Dr. Meers told that the countries that he visited are trying to find ways to limit their day care facilities and ... do away with them and ... do away with them.

Mrs. Lazlow, director of the Hungarian Bureau of Child Care informed Dr. Meers of hpr surprise over his research interest due to the fact that the United States was accepted as the richest nation in the world. Why then should the most affluent of nations wish to inflict on itself something that they, among the poorest of Europeans were trying to rid themselves of?

themselves of?
Yet, we at Pleasanton have allowed ourselves to be among the first to accept federal funding for day care here. We are taxed so that welfare can be paid to help these needy families, also numerous agencies are available to help situations of stress in families.

I am not opposed to low income families being helped, for only a short while ago our income was not very substantial to meet the rising cost of living.

Will the day care service stop at low income families or is the plan to make it a federally funded and staff Day Care Center, which has been one of the primary goals of the National Organization of Women (N.O.W.) and was adopted by The Department of Labor in September 1971 according to the handbook of N.O.W. page 2 in Revolution Tomorrow is Now.

I am a little outraged that more tax money is going to support the radical views of organizations and politicians, and reap havoc on our people. WAKE UP CITIZENS ...

Legislate morality

Editor, The Times:

Assemblyman Mori gave three reasons for his stand on the marijuana bill. I don't question his arguments (1) that in the present law punishment does not fit the crime and (2) that SB-95 would not make it easier to use marijuana in public or to sell it. But his statement "Government should not legislate morality: would eliminate a major function of government if it were followed strictly.
... it is clear to me that the most consuming

b of governments has been to legislate on the basis of what is considered morally right or to enforce this legislated morality. A church is usually associated with the preaching of its own version of morality as the legitimate dictum of the Supreme Power. It is only when a particular version is forced upon the general population that a conflict with the prevalent 'morality' arises.

In fact the legislation and enforcement of

In fact the legislation and enforcement of morality is going on at a mind — boggling pace in modern times. The most vocal, dnergetic, and powerful decide what is 'right' and replace the outdated 'morality' with their brand of new 'morality'. ...

Human slavery was morally acceptable at the time of the Prophets but not in the industrial age. The divine right of kings was discarded a long time ago. American morality prohibits the public execution of a murderer in the Saudi Arabian style. When the Supreme Court decrees that a drive-in theater can display a pornographic movie on a screen visible to the public outside the theater, it is weighing the morality of the right of free expression against the public's concern about violation of conventional morality. The court rules in the favor of what it considers higher morality and effectively legislates.

Not only is it Mr. Mori's job to determine what is morally right, but to legislate on that basis. ... We as his constituents hope that he considers the representation of our wishes as higher morality than the acquiescence to pressure from any special group.

"What would you like for dessert?", she asks sweetly. It is an invitation that strikes fear and freezing into the heart, recalling the days of my youth, on the cold, cold Canadian wheat land.

It was one thing to be called upon to walk the one and one half miles to school with the temperature hovering 30 degrees below the freezing mark. It is quite another matter—some several decades having past—to expect a man to adjust his stomach to the frozen delicacies which she keeps stored in that great white box.

"There are snails in one of those plastic ice cream cartons, I think, and some nice little chocolate things... they should be in the long brown box, or try the square white one tied with string."

It is not enough that I am asked to make like Admiral

Byrd in an after-dinner search for sustenance, I must also flounder out there in the frigid expanses without so much as a map, never knowing what mystery lies ahead, beyond the next unmarked carton.

She stocks up on these wonderful baked goods about once every three weeks. A delightful bake shop in San Leandro is her favorite, although the Dorfer's Cheese Cake people can also be counted on to restock our larder, whenever she chances by that Oakland bakery.

Each such occasion is a moment of pungent perfection in our house, the sweet perfume of fresh baked cookies and cakes and pastries filling a man's head with aristogratic splender, and his stomach with promises of a cratic splendor, and his stomach with promises of a feast a-la King Arthur. But not for long.

"Wrap all those pastries in wax paper and find empty ice cream cartons for the cookies," she orders with the precision of an Army quartermaster. "You can have one of those macaroons right now, if you want, but the rest has to go into the freezer."

It is like being asked to bury a dear friend in the bowels of the ship, to dispatch your loved ones into the Black Hole of Calcutta.

"Couldn't we just have these apple turnovers while they're so nice and fresh?" My saliva runs with the mere thought of it. But to no avail.

"You still haven't eaten the rest of that nut bread I bought three days ago," she reminds me. "And there's the tapioca pudding that you insisted I make last week ... better eat that up before it turns sour."

It already has, but I can see no point in starting a marital rift over a stupid dish of pudding. And so we march, my warm, fresh-baked friends and I, into the depths of the freezer, ours not to reason why, ours but to solidify, in fast-frozen kindred.

There was a day when we ate fresh food of all kinds in our house. The delicious roast extracted from Safeway on Saturday was the promised feast for Sunday; that fresh loaf of raisin bread would be our toast treat, the very next morning. But those were the times of our familial bounty, when eager mouths and empty stomachs abounded, usually well in excess of this one household's head count.

"What happened to all those cream-filled things you bought just this morning?", I would ask upon return from a hard day on the fairways.

"You mean the cream puffs? The children ate them for lunch," I am advised.
"But there were six cream puffs and we only have four children!" My reasoning seemed reasonable. But not for long.

"They must have had company for lunch," she says, ending that discussion. But those days are no more. Now we are empty-nested ... five whole days at a stretch when not a chick or child disturbs our adult tranquility, if you discount the kids next door, that is. It was about this time of our lives that she discovered the freezer.

"There is no way to keep things fresh anymore, with just the two of us at home for most meals. My sister says she freezes bread and meat and pastries so that they last for ages."

Curses on her sister! And curses on the people who can take a perfectly fine steak and turn it into a frozen, lifeless slab without thought of a man's taste buds, or his stomach.

"Aren't the steaks done yet?", I will ask, for the third time, usually well past "Hawaii Five-O" and while approaching the 10 o'clock news.
"They're somewhat more frozen than I thought," she announces. (I want to ask: "How can something be MORE FROZEN? - more frozen than what?" But I desist.)

"Have some more potato and vegetable," she implores. "Aren't those beans delicious ... got them fresh from the Niles roadside stand this morning." Yes, and froze the strawberries, I'll bet!

It is a treasure of wonderful foodstuffs always out there, but it might be as well be in Anchorage.

"Oh dear," she says with the promise of sad tidings.
"I had planned to have those nice little chicken breasts for dinner, but I forgot to get them out of the freezer this morning ... now they wouldn't thaw out in time, I'm afraid. How about some nice slices of Spam ... I can fry them up with a little cottage cheese and fruit on the side. Does that sound okeh?"

It does not sound like chicken breasts, of that I AM certain.

"If you would help me plan the meals one day ahead, we could get all these things out of the freezer the night before," she declares, defensively.

"I find great difficulty in getting my stomach to con-jure up a banquet for the morrow, while it is still trying to adjust to fried spam and the week-old tapioca pudding at nine in the evening," I assert.

It is another standoff. The freezer box wins again. I

"Hi, there! Abu's my name, and oil's my game!"

homesteader, the Bunker Hill Day celebration at Sunol Regional Wildernpss on Sunday is for you!

Participants are urged to wear pioneer garb or at the very least, Victorian raiment, and the varied seven-hour program offers everything from horsesbeeing and quilting and the varied seven-hour program offers everything from horseshoeing and quilting demonstrations to use of the scythe, wood-chopping and shingle splitting, operation of a bicentennial model spinning wheel, muzzle-loading rifle m ma manship and baking, photographic and pie-eating contests.

The celebration marks the 200th anniver-

The celebration marks the 200th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill in faroff Boston, Mass., the first major engagement of the Revolutionary War.

The program which turns the clock back a century or more starts a a.m. in the 3479-acre East Bay Regional Park and from then on, it's unremitting action until 5 p.m.

To give the affair the flavor of the fin de siecle years and before, Rose and Nell Geary, grandaughters of Pat and Mary Geary who homesteaded the lands in 1865 where the park now operates, will be on hand to chat. And thre'll be a rerun of that 1903 sprint up 1266-foot Flag Hill which some patriotic youngster in that uncomplicated era completed to plant the Stars and Stripes atop the peak.

Origin of Bunker Hill Day rests with the late A.A. Moore, superintendent of the one-room Rosedale School east of Sunol which had a top enrollment of 30 and dwindled to 16 when the doors closed for the last time in 1908.

The Bunker Hill Day celebration at the little school, presided over by history — minded Mr. Moore, grew in popularity rapidly and became a holiday lodestone for children and their parents who arrived in wagons creaking with picnic goozies from Calaveras, Sunol, Pleasanton and Mission San Jose School Districts.

In that far-off day, while youthful drill teams competed in the nh fiel e, the "old folks" parkicipated in the Virginia Reels and waltzes of the day and, mayhap, sipped a bit of hard cider. The archetypal one-room school stood on Bear Flat on the banks of Alameda Creek and not far from the present-day Geary Road.

The photo contest is limited to photographs taken in Sunol Regional Wilderness on or since the revival of Bunker Hill Day, June 15, 1974.

The Baking Contest is divided into five categories — pies, cakes, cookies, yeast breads and quick breads. Judges will be Pat Williams and Irma McCue of the Valley Ecology Center Natural Foods Group in Livermore. Baked goods should be turned in at the park headquarters building between 1:30 and 2:30

Simmering friction be-tween President Arnold Miller and Vice President Mike Trbovich boiled over earlier this month when Trbovich atry-Treasurer Harry Patrick's tacked Miller's and Secretafinancial management of the

In a memo to the UMW ex-ecutive board, Trbovich critistaffers, saying "it appears the squeaky wheel got the grease." And he charged that Patrick responded with a six-page memo in which he defended financial policy. He accused Trbovich of making unsubstantiated "wild charges" that will damage the union reputation and harm its organizing efforts.

"Your claim that the UMW faces 'dire financial difficul-ty' is totally false and a disservice to our membership," Patrick declared in the memo given to the 21-member board at its meeting here Wednesday. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

Some union insiders, including opponents of Miller, regard Trbovich's attack as politically motivated. "I think it's politics and it's personal," said one source. "It's been pretty clear that Mike wants to make a run for the presidency."

Trbovich has denied any political ambitions, saying hat he intends to retire when his term ends in 1977. However, he also has said that unforeseeable circumstances" could change his Hard feelings have existed between Miller and Trbovich ever since the union's 1972 election campaign when Trbovich, who expected to head the reform "Miners for Democracy" slate, was eased aside for Miller. The reform ticket defeated

DUBLIN - On Sunday

By BILL HAYDEN

A VERY SUCCESSFUL 'Bridal Fashion Forum' was held at the Holiday Inn-Livermore on Wednesday (25 June). Sponsors of the spectacular event were Anderson's House of Brides, The Country Studio, The Squire Men's Fashions, Caratti Jewelers, Livermore Travel, Turner's Registery, Century 21-Marcy Crowley, Helen's Blossom Shop, H&W Stationers, Century 21-Reg Mongano and The Scarlett Lady Hair Stylist. More than 200 invited guests turned out to find out the easiest and happiest way to handle a wedding. There were displays by the participating merchants and a fashion show of the latest styles for the bride and groom. Leslies B. Jacobs of The Country Studio was acting as coordinator of the forum. He was a busy man for a few days and although tired, says he was pleased by the whole affair. Next year he's looking forward to a bigger and better show. Pictured below are two moments from the fashion show portion of the program.

LIVERMORE DAY AT THE FAIR. co-sponsored by the Livermore Chamber of Commerce and the City of Livermore, will be held next Monday (7 July). The program committee consists of Dr. Marshall Kamena, Manuel (Mel) Luna, Rick Corbett and Bill Parness. They have put together a package ticket for $6 which includes general admission to the Fair, reserved grandstand seating at the races and a steak dinner which will be at 7:30 p.m. There are only 250 tickets available and you can call the chamber for last minute reservations if there are any left. Chamber of Commerce office is 1723 Barcelona Street. Also available are pamphlets describing the attractions at the Fair. The Talent Show will begin at 2:00 PM. Carol Jean Famariss is Chairman of the show his year.

YOU'RE NOT SEEING DOUBLE ... it's just Bob and John Crews who have opened THE TWINS AUTO REPAIR located at 1809B Santa Rita Road in Pleasanton. The phone number is 462-5067. The twin Crews were born in Washington D.C. but have spent most of their lives in the Bay Area. They are avid sportsmen. On a recent hunting trip to Canada they concentrated on Moose, Caribou and Elk. At work, Bob and John concentrate on auto repair. Hopefully yours.

Baptists drive to save church

DUBLIN - The Primitive Baptist Church, once the original Murray School, located south of 580 in Dublin has been sold to the Divisions of Highways by the congregation of the church. When it appeared impossible for the members to come up with the money to move their historical edifice to another location, it was decided to sell and relocate in Livermore. The Division of Highways has indicated, according to Virginia Bennett, librarian for the Dublin Library, they would be willing to move the building for the comtorical landmark if for the regular 10:30 enough interest was a.m. Sunday service sermon 'Myth and mitte with Don Mazy as shown.
